COVID-19 is an infectious respiratory disease caused by the SARS-CoV-2 virus. 12 14. The virus is highly contagious. Transmission of SARS-CoV-2 primarily occurs by 13 way of respiratory droplets in coughs and sneezes of infected persons in close proximity to others 14 and via contaminated surfaces. 15 16 15. There is presently no vaccine available for the prevention of COVID-19 in humans. 17 16. The incubation period for COVID-19 can range anywhere from 2-14 days. 18 17. Common symptoms of the virus include cough, fever, shortness of breath, chills, 19 muscle aches, headache, sore throat, and new loss of taste or smell. Symptoms vary in severity 20 and, in certain instances, can lead to hospitalization and death. 21 18. Due to the highly contagious nature of this virus, the risk of developing severe and 22 potentially fatal symptoms, and the lack of vaccine, experts recommend that individuals prevent the 23 24 spread of the virus by utilizing hand sanitizers and soaps, utilizing personal protective equipment 25 ("PPE") when in close proximity to others, and maintaining a minimum of 6 feet of physical 26 distance between themselves and others. 27 // 28

1	Timeline of Events
2	19. It is believed that the virus originated in Asia in late 2019.
3	20. In January 2020, the first cases of COVID-19 in the United States were reported,
4	with the first recorded case of community-spread virus transmission in the United States occurring
5	on January 30, 2020.
6 7	21. On that same day, January 30, 2020, the World Health Organization declared this
8	novel coronavirus outbreak a "public health emergency of international concern."
9	22. On March 4, 2020, California Governor Gavin Newsom declared a State of 10
11	Emergency due to the global COVID-19 outbreak.
12	23. On March 9, 2020, the U.S. Department of Labor Occupational Safety and Health
13	Administration released a publication titled "Guidance on Preparing Workplaces for COVID-19."
14	This detailed document explained that SARS-CoV-2 "has the potential to cause extensive
15	outbreaks" in workplaces and provided employers with basic steps they should take to reduce the
16	risk of employee exposure to SARS-CoV-2. These steps included:
17	- Develop an Infectious Disease Preparedness and Response Plan
18	- Prepare to Implement Basic Infection Prevention Measures, including:
19	 Maintaining regular housekeeping practices, including routine cleaning and disinfecting of surfaces, equipment, and other elements of the work environment
20	- Develop Policies and Procedures for Prompt Identification and Isolation of Sick People,
21	 if Appropriate Develop, Implement, and Communicate about Workplace Flexibilities and Protections
22	 Develop, Implement, and Communicate about Workplace Prexibilities and Protections Implement Workplace Controls
23	 Administrative Controls, including: Encouraging sick workers to stay home;
24	minimizing contact between workers; alternating days or extra shifts that reduce the total number of employees in a facility at a given time, allowing them to
25	maintain distance from one another while maintaining a full onsite work week; Developing emergency communications plans, including a forum for answering
26	workers' concerns and internet-based communications, if feasible; Providing
27	workers with up-to-date education and training on COVID-19 risk factors and protective behaviors (e.g., cough etiquette and care of PPE).
28	 Personal Protective Equipment (PPE) Controls, including: Employers are obligated to provide their workers with PPE needed to keep them safe while 5

1	performing their jobs. The types of PPE required during a COVID-19 outbreak will be based on the risk of being infected with SARS-CoV-2.
2	- Follow Existing OSHA Standards
3 4	24. On March 11, 2020, due to "alarming levels of spread and severity," the World
5	Health Organization made the assessment that COVID-19 can be characterized as a pandemic.
6	25. In guidance issued by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration on March 17, 2020,
7	the topic of workers in food processing and distribution facilities is directly addressed:
8	"If an employee is confirmed to have COVID-19, employers should inform fellow
9	employees of their possible exposure to COVID-19 in the workplace."
10	"While the primary responsibility in this instance is to take appropriate actions to protect other workers and people who might have come in contact with the ill employee, facilities
11	should re-double their cleaning and sanitation efforts to control any risks that might be associated with workers who are ill regardless of the type of virus or bacteria. For example,
12	facilities are required to maintain clean and sanitized facilities and food contact surfaces."
13	26. On March 20, 2020, Defendants posted a "Team Talk" sign titled "Coronavirus
14	Risk: Fact vs. Fiction" at the Distribution Center. This sign specifically informed workers that PPE
15	such as masks and gloves were not recommended for use by employees at the Distribution Center,
16	contrary to the guidance and advice issued by federal and state authorities.

27. In March 2020, workers at the Distribution Center began to fall ill with COVID-19. These employees were mandated to continue working not only regular shifts, but also additional shifts (6 days per week, rather than 4 or 5) with longer hours (16 hours per day).

28. By mid-March 2020, employees at the Distribution Center, including Pedro, began complaining to their supervisors about the dangerous working conditions and their fears associated with the same. These complaints were met by Defendants with threats of retaliatory disciplinary action, including the potential for accruing 'points' which could lead to termination.

29. On April 1, 2020, after experiencing a fever and other symptoms, Decedent received a COVID-19 test, which came back positive a few days later. He was admitted to the hospital on April 4, 2020 with pneumonia and symptoms including coughing, trembling, and fever. On April 5, 2020, he was transferred to the Intensive Care Unit, where he was intubated and placed in a medically induced coma, and on April 13, 2020, he succumbed to the disease.

30. On approximately April 17, 2020, a SAFEWAY spokesperson confirmed that at least 51 employees at the Distribution Center had tested positive for COVID-19. This figure represented 3% of the approximately 1,700 employees at the Distribution Center.

31. It was not until after Pedro's death that Defendants began to change their tune with respect to safety measures at the Distribution Center – a woefully delayed move that can best be described as "too little, too late." In fact, these modest changes—consisting of the rearranging of break rooms and the placement of one hand sanitizer stand (which was often left empty for hours) for a department with over 100 employees on shift at any given time—continued to leave Defendants' employees particularly exposed and vulnerable to this virus.

32. In response to public outcry surrounding Pedro's death and the mounting number of COVID-positive employees at the Distribution Center, Governor Newsom directed his remarks

FIFTH CAUSE OF ACTION

(Fraudulent Concealment of Injury (California Labor Code § 3602(b)(2)) – As Against All Defendants)

73. Plaintiff repeats and re-alleges, as if fully set forth herein, each and every allegation contained in paragraphs 1-72 above, and further alleges:

74. Decedent was injured on the job at the Distribution Center when he was exposed to and contracted COVID-19 in approximately March 2020.

75. By virtue of the fact that employees were exhibiting recognized signs and symptoms of infection while at the Distribution Center, Defendants knew that there was an outbreak at the Distribution Center and that many of their employees, including Decedent, had suffered job related injuries in the form of COVID-19 exposure, contraction and infections. Moreover, Decedent's superiors at the Distribution Center had knowledge that Pedro had been exposed to and contracted COVID-19 from his coworker in close proximity.

76. Despite having this knowledge, Defendants concealed the knowledge of the COVID-19 outbreak at the Distribution Center from their employees, including Decedent. In addition, despite their knowledge that Pedro had been exposed to and contracted COVID-19 from his coworker in close proximity, and dispute having a duty to inform him of the same, Defendants concealed their knowledge of Pedro's injury, who was not aware of his injury at all times relevant hereto.

77. Decedent's injury was made worse by Defendants' concealment, including Decedent experiencing a delay in being diagnosed and treated for the virus, which then eventually resulted in his death on April 13, 2020 after a hospitalization that included several days in the Intensive Care Unit.

78. The negligence, gross negligence, recklessness, carelessness, and other wrongdoing of Defendants, and each of them, was a direct and proximate cause of Decedent's injuries and ultimately his death on or about April 13, 2020. The harm, injuries, and damages caused by Defendants, and each of them, including Decedent's predeath wage loss and medical bills for treatment of COVID-19, survive the death of the Decedent.

79. As a direct and proximate result of the negligence, gross negligence, recklessness, carelessness, and other wrongdoing of Defendants, and each of them, and the resulting death of Decedent, Plaintiff has been, and will continue to be, deprived of her husband's love, companionship, society, comfort, care, attention, guidance, support, future financial dependence on Decedent, other future financial contributions, future gifts, services, and other (non-economic) damages in a sum in excess of the jurisdictional minimum of this Court, in an amount allowable by law, according to proof.

80. As a further direct, legal, and proximate result of the negligence, gross negligence, carelessness, recklessness, and wrongdoing of Defendants, and each of them, and the resulting death of Decedent, Plaintiff has incurred funeral, cremation and/or burial, and other related expenses in a sum according to proof.

17 81. Said conduct as herein alleged was undertaken by, authorized, approved of, and 18 ratified by managing agents of Defendants, and was done knowingly and willfully, and further was 19 malicious and oppressive in conscious disregard of Decedent's rights and safety, subjecting 20 Decedent to cruel and unjust hardship. As such, Decedent's legal successor-in-interest is entitled to punitive or exemplary damages given that this claim survives his death. 22

> 82. WHEREFORE, Plaintiff prays for judgment for damages as hereinafter set forth.
